Federal Communication Commission:

Please do not change the rules in place concerning broadcasting that affect Christian and religious programming. Our great country was founded granting religious freedom "The First Amendment" to its citizens. The old adage "If it aint broke, don't fix it" applies here. There are other avenues available over the airways "public access channels" to allow for freedom of speech from concerned citizens.

The changes you are proposing will drive up the station operating costs and potentially drive some stations out of business.

Sincerely,

Stanley Alan Moore
